

Contact: Cody Patterson
502-367-5102
Cody.Patterson@kyvenues.com

March 13, 2019

Canines to Compete and Serve the Community

WHAT Dogs will take over the Kentucky Exposition March 14-17 when thousands of canines compete in the Kentuckiana Cluster of Dog Shows and the Greater Louisville Training Club Agility Trials.

During the Kentuckiana Cluster of Dog Shows, top dogs from around the world are judged based on conformation, obedience and agility. Dogs demonstrate their skills, racing the clock as they weave through an obstacle course at the Greater Louisville Training Club Agility Trials, held in conjunction with the dog show.

The Kentuckiana Cluster of Dog Shows partners with community organizations to help local canine companions. Proceeds from the dog show help support:

- Police dogs with bullet proof vests, funds for retired police dogs and memorials
- Microchip clinic with Bark In The Park
- Providing animal oxygen masks for Louisville Fire & Rescue
- Donating money to help animals during natural disasters

WHEN Thursday, March 14 - Sunday, March 17
8 a.m. - 7 p.m. EST

WHERE West Wing, West Hall, Pavilion and Broadbent Arena of the Kentucky Exposition Center

ADMISSION Thursday
Free admission

Friday, Saturday & Sunday
$20, family of four
$10, adults
$5, seniors (ages 60 and over)
$5, children (ages 4-13)
Children under 4 are free

PARKING $10 per vehicle
$20 per bus

WEBSITE www.thekentuckianclusterofdogshows.org
www.greaterlouisvilletrainingclub.com

###